Free High Test Gasoline Irks Dairy Farmer

DENVER—More than 6,000 gallons of high test gasoline, retailing at 30 cents a gallon, seeped into the water wells of dairy farmer Philip Schweider, truck gardener Carl Stone and Mrs. Bonnie Perko, wife of a bus driver.

First the gasoline was just a nuisance. Now it has become a menace. It has restricted them to dribbles of drinking water from deep artesian wells which also are on their property.

At the Perko residence, gasoline fumes permeated the basement and forced Mrs. Perko to switch from open flame gas cooking to electrical cooking because of the fire hazard.

Stone said that the gasoline seeped into the soil of his truck farm and irrigation well, leaving his farm blighted with dull brown petroleum smears.

Schweider, a hard pressed for water for his dairy herd, said, "If the seepage isn't stopped, it might cost me my farm."

Nobody knows where the gasoline is coming from. State and city officials haven't been able to trace the flow and experts from two gasoline depots located more than a mile away said that they had not found any leakage from their tanks.

All agree that it can't be natural because the fluid tests as high octane motor fuel—with anti-knock compounds added.

The city fire department issued a stern warning that fires would be lighted at the property owners' risk after a minor explosion popped the tin roofing from Stone's well.

Soft-Hearted Bartender Sponsors Children's Hour

HOBOKEN, N. J.—Now it's a saloon with a children's hour.

The place is run by one Parky Radigan, who has a soft spot in his heart for the neighboring kids.

He hates to see those children's television programs going to waste in his place.

"These kids," he says, "don't get to see television. They're too young to drink."

The idea occurred to him when he turned the lights up one day after a baseball television broadcast. The dark corners were filled with young sters, who had sneaked in to watch.

So Parky perused the television schedules and picked out some children's shows.

The customers may have been startled at first but they made no protest when—as the children's program started—Parky closed the bar and called in the kids playing in the street out front.

The kids loved it.

For the older boys, Parky plans an afternoon a week of baseball. Dry, of course.

German Family in Berlin Bundles Up With Alligator

BERLIN—In the Reichelt family, they sleep three in a bed—Poppa Reichelt, Momma Reichelt and Max, who happens to be an alligator.

Mr. and Mrs. Emil Reichelt have other pets—dogs, cats, snakes, rabbits and monkeys—but it is only the six foot, 150-pound alligator that sleeps with them every night.

The 25-year old Max was singled out for this privilege because otherwise, say his owners, he would have died of the cold.

"He is a most reliable alligator," says Reichelt. "He's completely clean. He never snores, coughs or makes other noises."

At night, Reichelt relaxes in his easy chair with Max on his lap. Poppa Reichelt smokes a pipe. Max chews a pipe. Max needs a new pipe every month.

Max once went after another member of the household, a hen named Minna.

But that mother of eight squawked so loudly and pecked so fiercely the alligator lost heart.

Tahitian Chief Can't See Why People Live in America

ST. LOUIS. — Tahiti is still the paradise it always has been, and Chief Charlie Mauu of the Pacific island can't see why anyone would want to live in the United States.

"Politics? United Nations? We cannot worry about such things," the six-foot, two-inch islander said in halting English.

Then he gave his philosophy for happiness:

"Plant more. I tell my people, love more, and have more fun."

Charlie says it works.

"Swimming and outrigger canoeing and fishing; there is plenty for everybody," he said happily

When asked if the Tahitian natives really wore sarongs, Charlie said, "Oh, I put on sandals and the women wear dresses when we go to the city of Papette, but otherwise one wears only a sarong. Why more?"

Charlie, whose real name is Arutaura Terataki, admitted he liked the United States.

He said, "I like your ice cream and your buildings. And your girls are very nice. Dorothy Lamour is very nice, and Rita Hayworth — ah!"

Alien Cook Learns Quickly About U. S. Wage Minimum

SAN FRANCISCO. — Elsie Schelegger, 28, has learned enough since coming to the United States to know she wants more money and shorter hours in her job as cook to the Berkeley household of Dr. Hans M. Huerzeler, Swiss consul here.

Miss Scheidegger is on strike. While she and the consul general and the immigration service figure out her status, Mrs. Huerzeler and her daughter and even the consul general are doing their best to cook their own meals.

Mrs. Richard G. James told Elsie's story to Berkeley police. The officers had been called when Huerzeler found his cook had moved to Mrs. James's home.

Said Mrs. James:

Elsie was brought here by the consul general for domestic purposes. Elsie said she was paid $25 monthly on a 24-hour day, seven-day week basis, with free room and board and time off to go to church.

But she made some friends who told her all about wages and hours, particularly about a scale calling for $130 a month plus room and meals.

The immigration service, reminded by the cookless consul general that Elsie is an alien, ordered an investigation.

Woman Charges Dentist Pulled Teeth Without Her Permission

MICHIGAN CITY, IND.—A 59-year-old dentist was held on charges of forcing a woman to permit him to yank out 12 of her teeth.

Dr. Jesse R. Bennett said from his jail cell that it was "all a mistake" and then lapsed into silence.

Police said he was unable to post $100 bond on a specific charge of assault and battery.

His alleged victim, Mrs. Margaret Agnew, 33, told authorities that her husband, Morris, 35, invited Bennett to their home to work on her teeth.

She said the dentist arrived with a satchel of tools and her husband went out to buy liquor.

She said both of them drank and the dentist forced her to sit in a kitchen chair while he pulled teeth with reckless abandon.

"Every time he'd pull a tooth, he'd take a drink of whiskey," she charged.

Four hours and 12 teeth later, the dentist still had not given her an anesthetic, Mrs. Agnew declared. She said her husband was present throughout the ordeal.

Finally Mrs. Agnew said, Bennett drank so much that he could pull no more teeth and her husband put him to bed.

Can Black-Draught Help Physical Fatigue?

Yes, Black-Draught may help physical fatigue if the only reason you have that listless feeling is because of constipation. Black-Draught, the friendly laxative, is usually prompt and thorough when taken as directed. It costs only a penny or less a dose. That's why it has been a best-seller with four generations. If you are troubled with such symptoms as loss of appetite, headache, upset stomach, flatulence, physical fatigue, sleeplessness, mental dullness, bad breath — and if these symptoms are due only to constipation — then see what Black-Draught may do for you. Get a package today.

Uncle Sam Says

How time flies! That's a common expression you've used repeatedly. Keep it in mind when you think about your future and what you can do to make your future secure? There's no trick to security. Just enroll today in the payroll savings plan where you work. Every pay day from now on you'll be setting aside, in United States Savings Bonds, money that actually grows. In 10 short years you'll be getting back $100 for every $75 you're wisely setting aside today.

ENGAGEMENT IS ANNOUNCED

Mr. and Mrs. Early Franklin, of Spout Spring announce the engagement of their daughter, Margaret Elizabeth, to Wallace Ragland Megginson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Megginson, also of Spout Spring.

No date has been set for the wedding.

MISS ROBERTSON IS MARRIED TO MR. THOMPSON

Announcement has been made here of the marriage of Miss Harriett Leigh Robertson, daughter of Mr. William David Robertson, and Mr. William Morrison Thompson, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Thompson, of Richmond, Va.

The wedding took place September 11th, in the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. H. W. Brinkley, Walnut Hill, Petersburg, Va. The Rev. Aubrey Hughes, of Petersburg, was the officiating minister.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a wedding gown of candlelight satin, fashioned with a yoke of Rosepoint lace. Her fingertip veil fell from a bandeau of illusion trimmed with orange blossoms, and she carried a white prayer book with white orchid marker.

Mrs. Hubert W. Knight, of Crewe, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Miss Frances M. Cralle, of Richmond, was maid of honor.

Giles Crowder Engledove, Jr., of Richmond, cousin of the groom, was best man.

The selections "Because" and "At Dawning" were played by Mrs. J. Dave Plunkett, of Appomattox.

A reception, attended by many out of town guests, followed the ceremony. The bride and groom left by plane for a northern wedding trip. Upon their return they will be at home in Ashland, Va.

The groom is a nephew of Mrs. L. L. Gayle and a grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Atwood.

Fearless Dog Saves Couple From Two Bears

ANCHORAGE, ALASKA.—A small dog, unawed by a pair of brown bears, went to the defense of its master and his wife, possibly saving their lives.

D. C. Walker, 55, of Kenai had his scalp torn off, his left elbow crushed, an eye injured and fang marks over his body. His scalp was sewed back in place and he is expected to recover.

Walker, his wife and dog, Boots, were returning home from Whitney's cannery to dairy farms at the mouth of the Kenai river, where they are caretakers.

Two brown bears broke suddenly from the brush and charged. When 15 feet away one of the bears lunged for the couple. Walker pushed his wife clear, kicked the bear and then fell to the ground to play "dead."

The second bear then charged after Mrs. Walker, who ran back toward the cannery. Boots jumped into the attack and diverted the bear's attention so that it never reached her.

"I tried to play dead and keep under the bear's stomach," Walker said, "But the bear grabbed my head in its mouth. I could feel its tongue working over my head. Then he bit me. I reached up with my left arm to push him away. He crushed my elbow."

By the time Mrs. Walker reached the cannery and help, the dog's barking drew the bear's attention from Walker. The latter started walking toward the cannery.

Mrs. Walker collapsed when she saw her husband still alive.

Badly mangled, Walker was rushed here by plane.

It was the first report of brown bears in the area.
